

Military Benefit Association Sponsors Enlisted National Guard Soldiers at the 44th Annual EANGUS Exposition - Race to Indy

1888 Press Release - The Military Benefit Association will be a major sponsor again at "Race To Indy," the Enlisted Association of the National Guard of the United States 44th exposition in Indianapolis, Ind. The MBA team is looking forward to meeting and greeting the EANGUS members and showing off some of the best pricing in terms of life insurance, the industry has to offer!

Indianapolis, IN - The Military Benefit Association (www.militarybenefit.org) will sponsor the 44th Enlisted Association of the National Guard of the United States exposition from Aug. 8, 2015 to Aug. 13, 2015 in Indianapolis, Ind., at the Indianapolis Convention Center. MBA encourages you to visit booth 100 to pick up your free "All Hospitality Night" ribbon and enter a free raffle for two great autographed sports memorabilia prizes.

"We had a super time last year in Phoenix and this year, MBA is excited to be back sponsoring the Race to Indy conference. MBA has been taking care of our enlisted troops since 1956 and we continue to give back," said Roy L. Gibson, MBA President. "MBA is a non-profit association, which separates us from many other companies working with the National Guard. We were created to support our service members and we have excelled for sixty years at that mission!"

MBA will be hosting the Junior Enlisted Night on Monday, Aug 10, 2015 and the All Area Hospitality Night on Tues. Aug. 11, 2015. Monday night, the MBA-sponsored Junior Enlisted Event will be at the Indianapolis Colts Grille on Washington St. directly across from the convention center at 6:00 p.m. Tuesday night, Aug. 11, 2015, MBA sponsors the "All Area Hospitality Night" at 6:00 p.m. Described as one big tailgating party, "All Area Hospitality Night" will be at Military Park on N. West Street, walking distance from the convention center. Attendees will trade state lapel pins, enjoy refreshments and music. Pick up your free lapel pin ribbon at MBA's booth 100 before the event.

"Sponsoring the social events is our way of familiarizing EANGUS members with our great organization," said Gibson. "We're anxious to get to know these service members at MBA's booth 100 on the convention floor. Stop by and register for our free sports memorabilia raffle, sign up for a one year free $10,000.00 life insurance policy and pick up your free All States Night ribbon. More importantly, let MBA show you how to save money."

MBA will provide any eligible person a free one-year $10,000.00 accidental death and dismemberment insurance policy for simply signing up at booth 100. Those people will be entered into the MBA raffle for Colt's quarterback Andrew Luck's signed and framed 16x20 print. Keeping with the the "Race to Indy" theme, MBA will also raffle an Al Unser Jr. die-cast autographed model. Raffle winners will be announced before the conference ends.

Military Benefit Association was originally founded in 1956 to support enlisted service members with their life insurance needs. In 1963, MBA grew to support all military personnel, veterans, federal government employees and member dependents. At MBA, there is one clear mission: to make quality life insurance affordable for all military and federal civilian families. MBA remains true to that mission today.
